As the UC Center for Integrative Health and Wellness strives to fulfill its vision of becoming a transformational leader in healthcare, it will need to expand its reach to an ever-growing population that will benefit from its focus on prevention, early intervention and healing. To accomplish this goal from a grassroots approach the Center’s Community Advisory Council approved the establishment of a “Friends of Integrative Health and Wellness” program.

Interested community members can forge an in-depth relationship with the Center by becoming a champion for health and wellness through the Friends program. The goal of the program is to create advocates, increase participation in the Center’s activities and advance opportunities for involvement with wellness initiatives in Greater Cincinnati.

We invite you to be a champion of your own health and the health and wellness of your communities while helping to grow the Center’s mission. By doing so, Friends agree to:

• Provide an annual gift of at least $1,000 to the UC Center for Integrative Health and Wellness to advance Friends initiatives and the mission of the Center.

• Work with fellow Friends to develop engagement and educational activities on behalf of the program.

Friends will enjoy the following benefits:

• Invitation to Center receptions, community events, educational programs, symposium and other events.

• An annual report on the activities of the Center and the impact of your generosity.

• Quarterly e-newsletter with the latest wellness information and research.

• Membership into the University of Cincinnati Charles McMicken Society.

For more information about this opportunity, please contact Molly Long at (513) 558-4264 or molly.long@uc.edu, who can answer your questions and facilitate your contribution.

Or, complete and return the enclosed sign up form.

Thank you for your consideration!
A minimum gift of $1,000 will be greatly appreciated and used to advance the mission of the Center.
